Tino Ortega – Local Artist/Muralist

Tino Ortega is an El Paso artist. His work is characterized by a kind of hyper realism – works that blur the line between photorealism and depiction. His work features those who have made or are working to make a difference in the community at large. He has also dedicated himself to exploring the idea of “connectivity through diversity.”

He likes the idea that the viewers can be a part of the art. He believes artists have the responsibility to bring empathy and emotion into their artwork where the viewer can relate in a way that creates change.

Why did you accept your participation as a judge for this contest? –

I am thrilled to be asked to judge because I believe voting is a fundamental right as a US citizen and should be exercised by all. Receiving and proudly wearing the "I Voted" sticker is a rite of passage for voters and for the County to make it an open and inclusive contest is not only fun, but brilliant!
